

I SEE COLORS!

BY CHILDBOOK.AI

Mia skipped down the path with her basket. "I see red!" she said, pointing at a tree. A shiny red apple hung above her. She picked it up and smiled. Then she looked at the pond nearby. "I see blue!" she called out. A little blue fish swam past, flicking its tail. "Hello, blue fish!" Mia waved, giggling as it disappeared into the water.

Mia walked into the sunny meadow. "I see yellow!" she said, shading her eyes. The big sun glowed warm and bright above her. She twirled around, feeling happy. Then something hopped near her feet. "I see green!" Mia laughed. A green frog jumped onto a lily pad, croaking loudly. "You're so green and shiny!" Mia said, clapping her hands with joy.

Mia looked around the meadow, amazed. "I see so many colors!" she cheered. Red flowers swayed, blue butterflies fluttered, yellow bees buzzed, and green leaves rustled in the breeze. She spun in a circle, arms wide open. "Colors, colors everywhere!" she sang happily. Her basket was full of colorful things she had found. Mia felt like the whole world was painted just for her.

Mia sat under a big tree, looking at her basket. Inside were a red apple, a blue stone, a yellow flower, and a green leaf. "Colors are everywhere!" she said with a big smile. She looked at the sky, the grass, and the flowers around her. Every color made her happy. Mia hugged her basket tight and skipped home, ready to find even more colors tomorrow.
