

UNLIKELY FRIENDS

BY CHILDBOOK.AI

Addi Law sat in the library corner with her favorite book. She loved reading about magical creatures. Suddenly, a soccer ball rolled past her feet. "Sorry!" called Luna Lovegood, running over with a big smile. "I'm Luna. Want to play?" Addi shook her head shyly. "I don't really play sports," she whispered. Luna sat down beside her. "What are you reading?" she asked with genuine interest. Addi showed her the colorful pictures, and Luna's eyes sparkled with wonder.

The next day, Luna found Addi at recess. "I made something for you!" Luna said, holding out a drawing of a dragon from Addi's book. Addi's face lit up. "You drew this? It's beautiful!" Luna grinned. "Will you teach me about the creatures in your books? And maybe I can teach you soccer?" Addi hesitated, then nodded slowly. "Okay, but I'm not very good at running." Luna laughed kindly. "That's okay! Everyone starts somewhere. We'll help each other learn new things!"

After school, the girls met at the park. Addi taught Luna about phoenixes and unicorns while Luna showed Addi how to kick a soccer ball. "You're doing great!" Luna cheered when Addi made her first goal. Then they sat under a tree, and Addi read aloud while Luna sketched the characters. "This is fun," Addi said, smiling wider than usual. "Yeah," Luna agreed. "You know what? We're really different, but that makes us a great team." Addi nodded happily.

At school the next week, their teacher announced a project about teamwork. "Partners will combine art and writing," she explained. Luna and Addi looked at each other and grinned. They worked together perfectly. Addi wrote a beautiful story while Luna created amazing illustrations. When they presented, everyone clapped. "You two make a wonderful team," the teacher said. After class, Addi hugged Luna. "I'm so glad that soccer ball rolled to me." Luna laughed. "Me too! Best friends forever?" "Forever!" Addi agreed.
