

THE MAGIC GARDEN

BY CHILDBOOK.AI

Lily loved exploring her backyard. One sunny day, she spotted a rusty gate hidden behind tall bushes. "I've never seen this before!" she said. She pushed the gate open with a creak. Behind it was a garden bursting with colors she had never seen. Sparkling dew twinkled like tiny stars on every petal. Lily stepped inside, her eyes wide with wonder, ready to discover what secrets this magical place might hold.

Lily tiptoed past giant sunflowers when a small purple flower wiggled. "Hello there!" it said with a giggle. Lily gasped. "You can talk?" The flower nodded. "I'm Petal! This garden is magic. Every flower here grants one tiny wish." Lily clapped her hands. "Really? Can I try?" Petal smiled. "Of course, but choose kindly. Magic remembers your heart." Lily thought carefully about what she truly wanted.

Lily saw a wilted daisy nearby, drooping sadly. "I wish this flower could bloom happily again," she whispered. Suddenly, sunlight swirled around the daisy. It lifted its petals and bloomed brighter than before! Petal cheered, "You chose kindness! That's the strongest magic of all." The whole garden shimmered, flowers glowing softly like fireflies. Lily laughed with joy, amazed that her small wish made such a wonderful difference.

Petal said, "This garden stays magic only if you protect it." Lily promised to visit and care for every flower. She watered the sunflowers and hummed softly to the daisies. Every day after school, she returned through the little gate. The garden always welcomed her with color and light. Lily smiled, knowing she had found a secret friend and a magical place that was truly her own.
