

ALL SEASONS

BY CHILDBOOK.AI

Sean walked into the magical forest as winter ended. Tiny green leaves popped from every branch. "Look at all the baby birds!" he said with wonder. A friendly robin landed on his hand. Pink and yellow flowers bloomed everywhere. The air smelled sweet like honey. Butterflies danced in circles around him. Sean heard babbling brooks wake up from their icy sleep. "Spring is here!" he cheered. The whole forest seemed to giggle with joy. Everything felt fresh and new.

The forest grew warm and bright. Sean found a shady spot under a tall oak tree. Bees buzzed happily between purple wildflowers. "The sun feels so nice!" Sean laughed. He spotted deer drinking from a sparkling stream. Squirrels chased each other up and down trees. Birds sang their loudest summer songs. Sean picked juicy berries and shared them with a curious chipmunk. The leaves made a green ceiling above him. "Summer is the best for playing!" he said. The forest hummed with energy.

Cool wind blew through the forest. Leaves turned orange, red, and golden yellow. "It looks like the trees are wearing rainbow coats!" Sean exclaimed. He crunched through piles of fallen leaves. A hedgehog gathered acorns for winter. Sean helped by pointing to more acorns on the ground. The forest smelled like cinnamon and apples. Geese flew overhead in a V shape. "Goodbye, friends!" Sean waved to them. Pumpkins grew near an old stump. Everything prepared for the cold ahead.

Soft snowflakes fell on the quiet forest. Sean wore his warmest coat and boots. "The forest looks like a snow globe!" he whispered. Animal tracks dotted the white ground like a puzzle. A fox trotted past and nodded hello. Icicles hung from branches like glass decorations. Sean built a tiny snowman next to a sleeping tree. Cardinals added bright red spots to the white world. The forest felt peaceful and calm. "Every season is special here," Sean said softly. He couldn't wait for spring to come again.
