Once upon a time, in a little village, there lived a three-year-old boy named Jonah. Jonah had long, blonde hair that he loved to twirl around his fingers. One sunny morning, Jonah went for a walk in the garden and found a beautiful butterfly. He ran after it and followed it to a big tree.

As Jonah looked up at the tree, he heard a soft, gentle voice. It said, 'Hello, Jonah! I am God, and I love you very much.' Jonah looked around, but he couldn't see anyone. He was surprised and a little scared, but he felt warm and happy inside.

God's voice continued, 'Jonah, I love every part of you - your long, blonde hair, your twinkling eyes, and your little nose. But most of all, I love your kind heart.' Jonah felt a warm glow in his chest as God's words filled him with joy.

God then gave Jonah a special gift - a small, shining heart. 'This heart will always remind you of my love for you,' God said. Jonah held the heart in his hands and felt a deep sense of peace and happiness.

Jonah skipped back home, excited to share his amazing experience with his family. He told them about the butterfly, the tree, and most importantly, about God's loving words. His family listened with smiles on their faces, happy to see Jonah filled with joy.

From that day on, Jonah carried the shining heart with him everywhere he went. Whenever he saw someone feeling sad or lonely, he would show them the heart and tell them about God's love. Soon, the whole village was filled with happiness and love.

As Jonah grew older, he continued to spread love and kindness wherever he went. He realized that God's love was not just for him, but for everyone in the world. And the little shining heart continued to remind him of that love every day.

And so, Jonah's heart was always full of love, and he knew that God loved all of him - his long, blonde hair, his twinkling eyes, his little nose, and most of all, his kind heart. And wherever Jonah went, he spread God's endless love to everyone he met.
