

EMILY THE SEA TURTLE

by Jennifer Edwards & AI

Emily, the sea turtle, was the last to hatch from her nest. She pushed through the sand, feeling the cool night air. Her brothers and sisters were nowhere in sight. Emily knew she had to find the ocean.

As Emily crawled towards the sea, a friendly crab named Carl waved his claw. 'Need help?' he asked. Emily nodded, and together, they headed towards the waves, avoiding dangers.

The moon shone brightly, guiding Emily and Carl.
'Follow the moonlight,' Carl advised. It reflected on the water, showing them the way. Emily felt hopeful.

A seagull swooped down, squawking loudly. 'Watch out for the plastic!' it warned. Emily saw colorful pieces in the sand. She carefully moved around them.

In the shallow water, Emily saw glowing jellyfish. 'They're beautiful, but don't touch them,' Carl said. Emily swam carefully, admiring them from a distance.

Strong currents tried to push Emily away. She paddled hard, using all her strength. 'You can do it!' Carl cheered. Together, they overcame the challenge.

The ocean was now in sight. Emily's heart raced with excitement. 'Almost there,' she whispered. With a final push, she reached the water's edge.

Emily looked around at the vast ocean. 'This is your new home,' Carl said with a smile. Emily thanked Carl and swam into the deep blue, ready for new adventures.
