The next day, Val spent the morning gardening with Grandma. They planted flowers and vegetables, talking about the different plants. Grandma shared stories from her childhood, making the time special. By the end of the day, they had a beautiful garden to admire.

Inspired by the karaoke, Val decided to practice singing on her own. She chose a song that meant a lot to her and practiced every day. When she felt ready, she performed it for her family. They were all touched by her beautiful voice and encouraged her to keep singing.

Val wanted to do something special for her family, so she decided to cook dinner. With Grandma's guidance, she learned to make a traditional dish. The cooking process was fun and filled with laughter. The meal was a success, bringing everyone closer together.
