In the cheerful town of Valentine, everyone loved their wise and kind leader, Mayor Mysiki. One sunny morning, Mayor Mysiki called all the children and their parents to the town square for an exciting announcement! 'Good morning, everyone!' Mayor Mysiki said, his eyes twinkling. 'Today, I want to share a magical secret about something we use every day: Money!' The children gasped in excitement.

Mayor Mysiki held up a shiny coin. 'This,' he said, 'is a magical coin.'

Adults call this money, but what makes it magical is how we use and share it. For some it brings happiness, for others it helps them live.

Today, I will be providing all families with money every month to help buy food, clothes and much more?

The children looked at each other in amazement. 'Let's see what happens when we share it with others!'

Mayor Mysiki handed the coin to a little girl named Jasmine.

Jasmine took the coin and looked at it with cheer.

"Mayor Mysiki, I would like to buy a pie for my mama, can I use money to get her a big sweet potato pie!"

"Oh yes, Jasmine with the right amount you could buy a pie factory. Mayor Mysiki said with a smile "The magic part is you want to buy something for your mama. She will be so happy to eat and enjoy pie with you.

The children all looked at one another and nodded in agreement.

Next, Mayor Mysiki showed a piggy bank.

'Saving money is also magical,' he said. 'When you save, you can achieve big dreams!' A boy named Tim decided to save his coins to buy a new bicycle. Every day, he put a little money in his piggy bank.

After a few months, Tim had saved enough money to buy his bicycle. He was thrilled and rode it around town. 'Saving money helped Tim achieve his dream,' said Mayor Mysiki. 'Remember, saving is another way to use money's magic!' The children clapped and cheered for Tim.

Mayor Mysiki then talked about giving. 'Giving to those in need is the most powerful magic of all,' he said. A group of children decided to collect money to help a family whose house had burned down. They raised enough to buy them new clothes and food.

The family was overjoyed and thanked the children. 'You have shown the true magic of money,' said Mayor Mysiki. 'Helping others brings joy to everyone.' The children felt proud and happy. They realized that money could make a big difference when used wisely.

Mayor Mysiki gathered everyone one last time. 'Remember,' he said, 'money is magical because of how we use it. Share, save, and give to make the world a better place.' The children promised to use their money wisely. And from that day on, the town of Valentine was filled with even more happiness and kindness.
