

A STUDENT'S ANTICS

by childbook.ai

Saul was a boy with long black hair who loved to play pranks. One day, while wearing his untidy school uniform with a blue sweater and untucked shirt, he had a mischievous idea. He decided to switch all the labels on the classroom computers. Saul giggled to himself, imagining the confusion it would cause. Little did he know, Maestra Carlotta was watching him from the doorway.

The next morning, students entered the computer lab and were puzzled. Maestra de Computación noticed the chaos and called for everyone's attention. Just as she was about to investigate further, Maestra Carlotta walked in. She gently placed a hand on Saul's shoulder and whispered, 'I think we need to have a chat.' Saul's face turned red as he realized he had been caught.

Maestra Carlotta sat with Saul and explained why his prank wasn't funny. She told him how important it was to respect others and their work. Saul listened carefully and felt sorry for causing trouble. He promised to fix the labels and apologize to the class. Maestra Carlotta smiled, knowing Saul had learned a valuable lesson.

The next day, Saul arrived early to fix the computer labels. When his classmates arrived, he apologized for his prank. Everyone appreciated his honesty and effort to make things right. Maestra de Computación praised Saul for taking responsibility. From that day on, Saul focused his energy on helping others and became a better friend.
