

MRS. B'S LITTLE BREADCRUMBS

by childbook.ai

In a bright and buzzing hive, there lived a little baby bee. Today was Little Bee's first day at daycare! Little Bee felt nervous flutters in their wings but also a little tingle of excitement. "What will daycare be like?" they wondered.

As Little Bee flew into the daycare, they saw colors everywhere! There were toys, and lots of other little bees buzzing around. "Welcome, little bee!" said Mrs. B, the kind teacher with a warm smile. Little Bee felt a bit braver already.

Little Bee made new friends quickly. They built tall towers with colorful blocks and zoomed around buzzing happily. Mrs. B watched with twinkling blue eyes as the little bees played together. "You're doing wonderfully," she whispered to Little Bee.

Then it was art time! Little Bee loved painting with all the colors. Their favorite was making a big, bright sunflower. Mrs. B moved around the room helping everyone. "What beautiful artwork!" she praised, her gentle smile making Little Bee glow with pride.

Mrs. B gathered everyone for honey snacks and storytime. Little Bee sat close, feeling safe near their new favorite teacher. The stories were about brave bees having adventures. Little Bee thought Mrs. B told the best stories ever.

Outside, Little Bee learned to fly in formation with friends. Mrs. B showed them how to collect pretend pollen from the playground flowers. "You're learning so quickly," Mrs. B said with her kind face beaming. Little Bee had never felt so happy.

As time flew by, Little Bee was ready for a new room at daycare. They felt sad to leave their friends and Mrs. B. Mrs. B hugged Little Bee with her fuzzy arms. "I'll miss you, but you're ready for new adventures," she said.

Little Bee smiled, remembering how much Mrs. B loved them. Little Bee was sure Mrs. B would visit and they would see her again. Little Bee felt strong and brave enough to start a new adventure. Thanks to Mrs. B's little breadcrumbs of kindness, they were ready to fly higher.
