

ASHTON & LEXI

by Alicia Johnson and ai & AI

Even though Lexi and Ashton had crushes on each other in middle school, they didn't start to date until after high school. Something immediately sparked between them on their first date!

Ashton already had one black cat named Ash, but when a black kitten showed up in his back yard, Ashton and Lexi decided to raise her. She was named Freyja, and she was very feisty!

Friday nights became movie nights for Ashton and Lexi. They would build a blanket fort while the cats nestled between them. Lexi preferred romantic comedies while Ashton loved superhero films. Somehow, they always found something they both enjoyed.

Ashton's collection of Batman and Spiderman memorabilia grew with each passing month. Lexi and he found some of the best ones at Graham Cracker Comics. She loved seeing his passion for the things that brought him joy.

Finals week meant late nights and Reign energy drinks & Papa John's pizza. They quizzed each other until dawn, surrounded by textbooks and sticky notes. Freyja would walk across their papers, demanding attention. Somehow, studying together made even the hardest subjects bearable.

Ashton made homemade chicken fettuccine, and Lexi helped. Flour covered their clothes and faces as they laughed through the mess. Ash & Freyja watched curiously from the counter, occasionally batting at stray pasta strands. Their first attempt was delicious.

Chicago welcomed them with open arms and gusty winds that tossed Lexi's long hair. They took selfies at The Bean and ate deep-dish pizza at Vito and Nick's. Ashton held Lexi's hand as they walked to the Navy Pier and throughout Chinatown. They left pieces of their hearts in the Windy City.

Rain tapped against the windows as Ashton and Lexi curled up with books. These quiet moments were some of their most treasured.

Ashton drove them to the countryside where stars shimmered like diamonds. Lexi spread out a blanket while he set up his telescope. They pointed out constellations and shared dreams under the vast night sky. Ashton whispered that meeting Lexi was written in the stars.

The music of Attila and Linkin Park filled the kitchen. The cats scampered between their feet, adding chaos to their impromptu dance. These moments made their house feel like home.

Halloween brought out Ashton's creative side as he designed Batman and Catwoman costumes. They were the talk of the night when people saw how great they looked.

Ashton and Lexi enjoy spending time together, even if it's just a picnic outside with their furry little girls. They know that no matter what they do or where they go, their love is forever.
