

SANG SANG GREAT ADVENTURE

by Charl & AI

Sang Sang woke up with a big smile. Today Mama said he could have chocolate cupcakes for breakfast. It was a special day for adventures.

Sang Sang put on his favorite blue shoes. He packed his small backpack with a juice box. "I'm ready for adventure!" he announced proudly.

Mama held Sang Sang's hand as they walked to the park. The sun was shining and birds were singing. Sang Sang jumped over every crack in the sidewalk.

The swings were Sang Sang's favorite part of the park. "Higher, higher!" he giggled as Mama pushed. He felt like he could touch the clouds.

On the swing, Sang Sang imagined he was flying.
He soared over mountains and oceans. The wind rushed through his short black hair.

A butterfly landed on the swing next to Sang Sang.
"Hello, butterfly friend," he whispered. The butterfly flapped its colorful wings as if saying hello back.

Sang Sang dug in the sandbox with his small shovel.
He found a smooth, shiny pebble. "A treasure for my collection!" he declared.

After playing, Sang Sang sat on the bench with Mama. He drank his juice and ate apple slices. "Adventures make me hungry!" he said.

The sun began to set as they walked home. Sang Sang's legs were tired from all the fun. He held his treasure pebble tightly in his hand.

At home, Sang Sang took out his Marble Rush set. He built a twisty track with loops and turns. The colorful marbles raced down like little friends.

"The blue marble is the leader," Sang Sang told Mama. He imagined each marble was having its own adventure. They zoomed and spun through the plastic maze.

After dinner and bath time, Sang Sang climbed into bed. "Tomorrow, more adventures," he yawned sleepily. He dreamed of swings that flew to the moon.
